

Movement – know that consciousness is in perpetual motion.

Your next step:

It is time for you to move onto something new that provides you with a more profound sense of your consciousness flowing with Intelligent Creativity.

Where would you rather be? Write it down.

What would you rather be doing? Write about it.

How would you like to do that? Write about the final outcome, rather than getting caught up in details you don't know yet.

What resources do you need for this idea? In your list, include attitude, abilities, skills, physical resources, etc. But don't mention 'money', just the skills, materials and/or products you require – this is key to Creating.

Keep this action/movement flowing ... re-read what you have written often, add to it, evolve the written description until it materialises as desired.

Ask yourself "What can I do today to move myself into the right place at the right time for receiving this?" Do it.

Ask your Self questions and action your answers –

Enjoy the perpetual motion of Consciousness.

Marianne Thorne

CreativeGoalSetting.com